GRANT DEVELOPMENT WORKSHOPS

Jump start summer research plans by attending workshops designed to support grant proposal development. Attend one or both workshops.

What to Know Before Starting to Write a Grant Proposal

Thursday, May 14, 2026, 10 am to 11:30 am
Zoom Meeting ID: 936 1136 6952

Topics will include how to find funding opportunities and align research ideas with those opportunities; understand the missions of different funders; learn about specific funding opportunities for early career stage faculty at the National Science Foundation; learn about the merit review criteria; and receive tips for getting started with writing competitive proposals, especially as it relates to changes at federal agencies post 2025.

The workshop is designed for faculty new to the grant writing process or reengaging in the process. Experienced grant writers will also benefit.

Taking Your Grant Writing Efforts to the Next Level

Thursday, May 14, 2026, 12 pm to 1:30 pm
Zoom Meeting ID: 981 9629 6507

Topics will include an overview of the current federal funding landscape and the challenges and opportunities ahead; major federal funding opportunities and how to align research ideas with those opportunities, especially for faculty not in fields that are current administration priorities; collaborations and interdisciplinary efforts; exploring how to conceptualize proposals as persuasive documents; and addressing broadening participation and broader impacts post 2025.

The workshop is designed for faculty reengaging in the process and experienced grant writers. Much of the information provided is useful for faculty new to grant writing.
